

DACA: What Now?

DACA Immigration Policy Panel Discussion

Monday, Sept. 18, 6-8 p.m. | Stotler Lounge - MU's Memorial Union

On Sept. 5, 2017, the Trump administration rescinded the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA) program that provided certain undocumented immigrants who were brought here as children the opportunity to pursue higher education and work in the U.S., without fear of deportation. Nearly 800,000 youth have received DACA protection over the past five years.

With the ending of the DACA program, what do we know about the impact of DACA, and what will the end of the program mean to DACA recipients and our communities? What is next for the policy, the young people with DACA, and the universities, workplaces, and communities that have welcomed them?

Panelists:

Emily Crawford-Rossi
ELPA, College of Education

Stephanie Potochnick
Truman School of Public Affairs

Helene Fehlig-Tatum
Immigration Lawyer

ALAS:

Association of Latin@ American
Students